EcoChestnut meeting in Melivia, Greece!

Eco-chestnut partners gathered in Melivia, in Thessaly-Greece, between October 29 and 31, to finalize the learning material of the project. They were hosted by the Agricultural Cooperative Melivia and had the opportunity to finally see each other live after so many months! They reviewed the educational platform of the project, discussed on the processing of chestnuts in their countries and visited chestnut orchards.

Together with local people and with other visitors, partners had the possibility to join trekking in the forest of Mont Kissavos with oak, beech and chestnut trees and taste cuisine made with chestnuts.

Chestnut producers of the project shared knowledge and practices. Here, Paul-Antoine Susini, from the Regional Natural Parc of Corsica and producer of organic chestnut, presents the chestnut flour production in Corsica, a processing made in a completely traditional way.

On Friday 28, partners of EcoChestnut met the children of the school of Melivia to speak about chestnuts and the different ways to prepare them in Greece, Corsica and North of Spain. Students from 5 to 12 years old had prepared a wonderful exhibition on chestnut!

EcoChestnut Partners visited the storage and refrigerate place of the Agricultural Cooperative of Melivia. 60% of the chestnut production is ready to leave for Italy!
